JAMES ARCHBALD 1793-1870

James Archbald, the son of Scottish shepherds, was born on Little Cumbrae Island off the Ayrshire coast of Scotland on March 3, 1793.

The family came to America in 1805 and settled in Rome,
New York, where James later got a job on a team that was constructing the Erie Canal.

In 1825, James Archbald began working for the Delaware and Hudson Railroad in Carbondale,

and in 1830 he was named Chief Engineer.

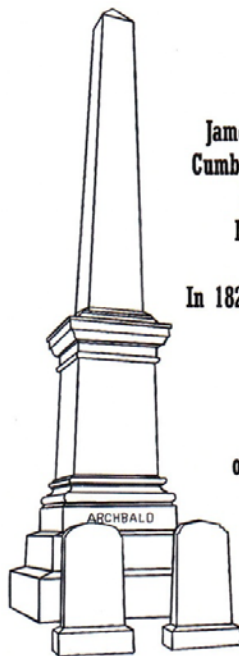

He designed and supervised the construction of the 1845 configuration

of the D&H Gravity Railroad from Carbondale to Honesdale, and later designed the Pennsylvania Coal Company's Gravity Railroad from Port Griffith to Hawley.

He married Sarah Agustus Temple.

From 1851 to 1855 he served as Mayor of Carbondale.

James Archbald died on August 26, 1870.
